

Vision of Heaven
From An Apostle of the Green Scapular

“The following is a vision of Heaven. It is a compilation from several visions over a period of several years. These visions occurred over time as I was praying when I went to bed in that half wake, half sleep state or when I was in prayer and meditation. Each time the vision was very similar, but additional details were included making it richer and more personal over time.

The second Heaven parted, and I could see into the third Heaven where Jesus resides. I found myself sitting on a pretty white bench under a weeping willow tree. The bench had a curved back and legs, like is often seen in public parks. I am not sure what material was used for its construction. The bench was firm, but comfortable to sit on.

The willow tree had pear shaped diamonds for leaves. The Lord told me this was a tree He made especially for me. I could hear faint musical sounds in a perfect melody as a soft breeze blew across the leaves. It was a melody of Heaven. The sounds were pleasing to the ears and peaceful, totally in tune with the Lord. All stress melted away as I sat on the bench listening to the diamond leaves make a beautiful melody in the gentle breeze while I looked out over the water.

At the foot of the bench was the mouth of a small brook. When I sat on the bench, I could dangle my feet in the water from the brook. The water was cool and refreshing. It danced around my feet as if alive with the holiness of God.

As I looked out over the brook, it became progressively wider and deeper. The little brook turned into a stream, then into a river. The river had an outpouching like a lake, but it had an outlet where the water continued to flow. The outpouching provided a wonderful swimming area.

The bottom of the brook, stream, and river all had magnificent smooth gems like diamonds that glistened in the light. There were occasional colored gems as well. They were smooth to touch and pleasant under te feet. When I walked along the brook and stepped on the diamonds, they were full of life and vitality that was transmitted to me.

I could see Jesus in the swimming area beckoning me to come. I swam along the river to Him and then we frolicked in the lake. It was a magnificent experience. I was totally surrounded with the sounds of Heaven, light of Christ, the peace of the Holy Spirit and the love of the Father. I was all alone with Jesus in the experience. He had his attention totally on me. There were not distractions. It was just the two of us.

As I swam, there was total freedom. I was gliding through the water, totally encompassed in Heaven’s glory. I asked the Lord for confirmation of this vision. Was it just my imagination or was it really a glimpse of Heaven?

After I prayed, a woman I know described seeing the willow tree and bench in Heaven by the river of life. She did not know I had seen the same thing. Her description was very similar to mine. Then a friend who I had told about this vision sent me a YouTube video from a woman who described the diamond tree outside the throne room of Heaven were the river of life began. Second confirmation.”
